

My History? New Story?

So far you have investigated your family history and the broader history that surrounds it. We know the key historical events that have impacted on the lives of our descendants, relatives and other key people in our lives. We now want to dig deeper into our past to find a story that has not been documented. We want to tell a story that has never been told!

Start

From this investigation, identify one person who has made an impact to your life directly or indirectly. What is that story? How could it be told? Where does the story fit in relation to broader historical events?

Organise your ideas and make a proposal about your documentary. Complete the proforma.

Consult with your teacher and get your project approved.

Modify your project if required.

Approved?

No

Yes

Hint: Plan includes script, film sequences, other footage, stills, props, mood, location, music, timeline etc.

Plan your film. Use "Comic Life" as your story board

Write your script/narrative. Use the editing process to improve your work

Create and produce a powerful filmed documentary that is well scripted and engaging. Preview your production to a test audience. Use feedback to improve your production.

Present your film at your film festival to family and friends.

Evaluate

Which other documentaries did you like?
Contribute to the class forum commenting on at least three others.
Use deBono's Hats to evaluate your work.
Journal your reflection.